of the Ivory and Blue Shop

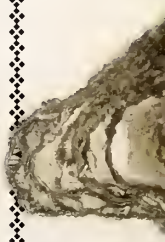

The Brightest "High" Lad

We are not mentioning his name and you will perhaps find it a hard matter to recognize him as pictured, but here's our proof that he is a "first-honor" student. During Exams he was asked to write a sentence expressing admonition, and here is what he wrote:

"For Goodness Sake—

Burn MONARCH COAL"

There's no question about this youngster's knowledge of the best advice when it comes to that "burning question" of Coal. He also knows our slogan, which is a household phrase throughout Asheville. MONARCH is the real "king" of all Jellico Coal.

Cecil's Business Colleges

Cecil's Business Colleges offer courses of study prepared by the United States Bureau of Education and approved by expert business educators and leading employers of commercial school graduates.

These schools maintain at all times a thoroughly capable faculty and provide all modern advantages for the student's rapid, symmetrical progress through his course of study.

Being located in Asheville and Spartanburg, we are in close touch with the business interests of this entire section. It always has been an easy matter to place our graduates in the best positions available, for business men know the high standards set by our institutions.

The reputation of these schools is already established. They can give prestige to the graduate —for the reputation of the student in the business world can be no better than that of the school from which he is graduated.

If you are interested in specialized training, you are invited to call and talk over the matter with us. When you see our facilities and equipment, we know what your decision will be.

Taking Care of The Boys

from the "pomp" age to young manhood

FROM the time a "hi" boy begins to train a pompadour and spruce up in general, until he lengthens his trousers and becomes a young man, he looks to Moore's to take care of him in the matter of stylish and dependable wearables. It is but natural that he should want his clothes to come from the store which serves his older brothers and his father. Too, boys have found they can get real grown-up service at Moore's, also the snappy styles which high-school students want. The highest quality of everything the boy wears, modestly priced.

February Class Poem

Mary Wilder, '23

O School of our childhood, thou home of our youth,
Who guided our footsteps o'er pathways uncouth,
Like the towering pines which with proud lofty crests
Worship the spot where thy edifice rests,

As a symbol of gratitude poured from each heart
We bow at thy shrine as we turn to depart.
We lay at thy footstool the laurels we've won;
To thee we owe praise for the deeds we have done.

'Tis here we have glided through four happy years—
Learned to love every spot where thy greensward appears.
We love every nook in thy class rooms and halls,
Each place made familiar by marks on thy walls.

We dream of young days we spent happily there
Where we knew naught of worry and thought less of care.
While sands in the hour glass ran swift through the years
We moulded and sculptured our high school careers.

Careers which may waft us to castles of fame
Or high peaks of fortune crowned by a great name—
Whence rumors of glory will reach thy mute ears
And echo thy praise through the resounding years.

But whether we be statesmen or heroes who dare,—
Endowed with true art or genius rare,
We shall bear thy indelible print on our lives,
And of this we'll be proud to the last who survives.

While gathered together we drink thy last toast:
"Long live the school of which always we boast.
May her enemies never her honor suppress;
We'll ever be loyal to dear A. H. S."

February Class History

Marvin McCulloh, Kathleen Morison

ALL great events are recorded and this record in later years becomes history. A record has been made of the facts concerning the February Class of '23, and now we present it to you in order that you may know what this class has done and has not done.

On that memorable morning of the second of February, 1919, a group of ninety-one boys and girls entered into the mysterious realms of the Asheville High, where we were initiated into the wonders of the high school. We soon found that we occupied the exalted position of Freshmen, for so it seemed to us, until the energetic "sophs" commenced to teach us a few of the lessons of humility that we had to learn during that eventful first year. Class unity was almost impossible; for our class was divided, part going to the old building on Woodfin Street and the rest to a nearby annex. In our mid-term we entered school in the beautiful new building on Oak Street. This new building and its fine equipment inspired us to better work and higher ideals. We suffered many hardships and setbacks due to the "Flu" epidemic which was then raging throughout the nation. Then upon us as upon the whole allied world descended the joys of November 11. That glorious day gave the final touch that brought us fully into the life of the Asheville High.

At last, despite all, we were Sophomores. Our class was now organized, and we assumed a definite place in the school. This year our class was well represented in all school activities. We were one hundred per cent for the Hillbilly and the Athletic Association. It was a great life and few weakened. This year rapidly passed into the realms of pleasant memories.

The good fairy waved her magic wand and lo! we were high school Juniors. In the third year of our course we found a much more dignified body of students than any of us dreamed the class could produce. We had developed a new life within us, a new loyalty to our school, and a new unity in our class. This year as in the previous year we developed a keen appreciation for all school activities and gave them our utmost support. We are proud to say that Jack Felmet was chosen Captain of the Football Squad. We soon realized that this year of rapidly occurring events was passing into history, and we were very soon to draw to a close our sojourn in the Asheville High.

At last we are Seniors, we have reached that pinnacle toward which we have been striving for the last four years. The way has been rough, it is true, but not altogether unpleasant. Indeed, we have had many pleasures from our brief stay in High School. This year finds many changes in the personnel of the class. We are sorry to say that several of our classmates doubled in their subjects and now they are safely harbored within the ports of different colleges throughout the Southern states. Others have grown faint of school and have entered into that (shall we say wonderful or terrible?) sea of matrimony. Among those who have fallen victims to the malady are Nell Matthews, Averil Sickafus, Alma Carter, and Charlie Weir. Still others have been delayed in the journey by long spells of illness; however, most of these are pressing on toward the day of graduation. We are sorry to have lost those of "nos compagnons de voyage" after they have been with us so long, but we have gained new members who did not start with us and we are glad of their presence.

In the Junior and Senior year we furnished eight men for the Football Squad, one of which, Jack Felmet, acted as Captain one year and Manager next. We were also well represented in the girls' Basket Ball team, Olivette Luther being chosen as Captain. Now let us turn to the Literary side of the school. Margaret Jarret and Hilda Yeager have won fame through our school magazine, Margaret having been Editor-in-Chief of the Blue Staff and Hilda of the Brown. They are now joint Editors-in-Chief of the Annual. The president of the Student Council, Lucille McLean, is the class president.

As all great historical events are compared with other great things that happened during the same period, we take it upon ourselves to remind you of four great events that have taken place during our four years' sojourn in Asheville High School. First, the winning of the World War by the Allies. Second, the winning of the Aycock Cup in the State Triangular Debate. Third, the winning of the State Football Championship. Fourth, the winning of the Basket Ball Championship.

February Class Will

WE, Marie Edwards and Brevard Hoover, of the February Class of 1923 of the Asheville High School, being in our right minds but uncertain as to the length of time that we will remain thus on account of our sad and regretted departure from our beloved school, do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament.

First. To the members of the Faculty in order respective do we leave:

1. To our friend and Principal, A. J. Hutchins—A vanity case from each girl of the February Class in order that he may have a sweet and fragrant remembrance thereof.

2. To Professor Hyatt—A string to tie around his finger to remind him he is in History class and not in a social gathering.

3. To Miss Stratton—A good sized box in which to place the useless commas that she collects from her Senior essays.

4. To Mrs. Hoffman—A lasso to rope stray pupils in the corridor.

5. To Mrs. Blankenship—Mary Baker's copy of Coué's "Auto-suggestion."

6. To Mr. Hunt—Robert Finley's superfluous grin.

Second. To the undernamed students of this institution we do will:

1. To Charles Chackales—Hal Brown's Book entitled "How to Win the Ladies."

2. To Sara Erwin and Dorothy Farr—Hilda Yeager's and Mary Wilder's quiet and dignified ways.

3. To Hamilton Slagle—Jack Felmet's manly ways.

4. To Frances Harris—Nellie Patterson's soft voice.

5. To Ben Humphries—Brevard Hoover's ability to vamp the ladies.

6. To Aretha Cowan and Kathleen Tate—Edith Forster's and Bonnie Shoffner's position in Guy Green's harem.

7. To Sarah Orr—Margaret Jarrett's place at the piano.

8. To Eddie Chackales—Hurst Allen's method of growing tall.

9. To Ruth Kaylor—Kathleen Morison's attractiveness.

10. To James Nixon—Bill Braman's wicked eyes.

June Class Poem

Maurine Bledsoe

We've had four years of happiness
Four years of work and fun;
And yet, though we are leaving,
We know life's just begun.

We've studied and we've frolicked;
We've worked and we have played;
We've longed for graduation;
But now we want the time delayed.

The years have been so pleasant—
Our memories are so dear—
Our hearts are filled with sorrow
That the parting time is near.

Remember, friends and classmates,
All the joys that we have had.
Remember Senior basket ball
When the Faculty felt bad.

Remember 'twenty-two
When as Junior girls we won
The cup from other classes.
We were excelled by none.

We also can record
In the years that we've been here
A CHAMPIONSHIP in football,
And fame both far and near.

Our teams in basket ball
Failed not to do their part.
The CHAMPIONSHIP this year
We hope is just a start.

And even, friends, as freshmen,
We remember with great pride,
The cup for our debaters,
How we cheered the winning side.

We started Student Government,
And proclaimed to High School, all—
That we were true and honest,
And our standards did not fall.

But now we look ahead,
O'er the valley's distant rim;
Behold! Success! A shining cup!
And then once more 'tis dim.

So now, farewell, dear Asheville High,
Our days with you are o'er.
In all the many years to come
We'll love you, more and more.

June Class History

Evelyn Roberts, Ruby Evans

FOUR years ago our beautiful high school building was complete and ready for the occupancy of not only the haughty seniors—for so they seemed to us—but the confident juniors, the hopeful sophomores, and last and least, the shy but aspiring freshmen. But as the building was new to all the students, for once the freshman class felt nearly as dignified as the seniors. We found our way around with great alacrity and were even a help to the others. The freshmen, one hundred and fifty strong, entered the building on that auspicious morning in September, stout of heart, for we were there to take possession with as much knowledge of lockers, classrooms, and corridors as the most learned senior or presuming sophomore. Not only did we have the magnificent new building to inspire our ambitions, but we also had a new principal.

While we were yet freshmen and struggling with the first principles of algebra and Latin, the girls were invited to join the Bluebird Literary Society and the boys the Franklin Society. Our feeling of importance in becoming members of a real high school society can only be imagined. Our debates were features never to be forgotten, and the fact that the Bluebirds came out victorious over the Franklins gave the girls of our class keen delight.

At the end of the school year most of us were fortunate enough to pass into the sophomore class with Mr. Hyatt as our assembly teacher. This year stands out preëminently as one of pleasant memories. The main social feature was the entertainment of our class by Harry Johnson at his home in Chunn's Cove.

When we had successfully crossed the Rubicon with Caesar and bade farewell to our old and trying friend, The Merchant of Venice, we tilted our chins a little higher and stepped upon another rung of the ladder of Fame, from which height we were known as juniors. The seniors at last began to realize that we were in the high school building, and our sense of importance increased daily. A dance given us at the Belvedere was the principal social event of that year. Will we ever forget the midnight oil we were compelled to burn, satisfying Mrs. Crawford's insatiable appetite for themes and original English work? We know that it was all done for our good, though we are a little surprised that we lived through it. This preparation has been of great help to us in our senior year, and we give her now our tardy appreciation.

When one has looked forward to and worked for but one end, the gratification is not small when that aim is reached. Thus we felt on entering our senior year. We were not filled with pride and self-satisfaction but rather with an humble spirit of dependence and with the earnest wish that our conscientious instructors might complete with credit to them and honor to us what we were all striving to attain. The event that stands out most prominently in our senior year was the adoption of certain Resolutions of Honor by both the February and June classes. This led to the organization of a Student Council composed of twelve members of both classes whose purpose was to mete out punishment to any one caught violating any of these Resolutions. The other classes of the high school showed their approval of the stand taken by our class by drawing up similar resolutions. We have contributed as our share to the basket ball teams two girls and three boys. We are proud to claim Andy Brandl, captain of the team which won the STATE CHAMPIONSHIP, as one of our number. In football we sent forth six grim warriors, one of these Phil Atkinson, captain of the team which also has a STATE CHAMPIONSHIP to its credit. Margaret Whitlow and Maurine Bledsoe have done fine work as editors-in-chief of the Brown and Blue Hillbilly staffs, respectively. All four members of this year's triangular debating teams were from the June class. These debaters were Eloise Hanaman, Helen Johnson, Hilliard Greenwood and Huger Sinkler.

Then there is one thing we should not forget to mention. It is said that there are two great times in a person's life, one's graduation and one's marriage. We have two members that would have graduated with us if they had not taken the second step. Mary Harris, the artist of our class, will be married in June at Brevard, N. C., and Frances Pettus has also found her Prince Charming and left us.

Taking into consideration our record we think we have made our presence felt in the different phases of our school life, and it is our hope that it will be a long time before Mr. Hyatt's "Ninth Graders" are forgotten.

June Class Will

FROM time to time within the course of human and unhuman events this, the deed too terrible to name, becomes necessary for the graduating class of the Asheville High School. Thus we, Countess De Ceit and Count De Change, being of deceased minds and diseased bodies and realizing the uncertainty of our existence through the trials and tribulations of graduation, do hereby declare that on this, the seventh of June in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and twenty-three, the first will and testament is writ and published.

To our beloved faculty we bequeath the following belongings:

To Mr. Hutchins—One complete set of cow bells to augment the deficiency in the present supply.

To Mr. Hyatt—Another model Ninth Grade to take the place of the one which is graduating this year.

To Miss Stratton—A pair of ear muffs so she can't hear the melodious voices of ye olde HILLBILLY Staff issuing from the sacred confines of her office during one of her class periods.

To Miss Fraser—One perfectly good class of girls who don't use their vanity cases in public.

To Miss Smathers—Harry Johnson's fire extinguishers to use in case of attack by the henna headed members of her gym class.

Realizing the High School's need of our most precious treasures, we most graciously present:

To Ralph James—"Susie" Shuttle's Valentino Stuff.

To Christina Ervin—Praytor's red sweater; Whitlow's red skirt; Louise Cliff's red hat—providing she wears them all at the same time.

To Sara Erwin—Emily Price's hair-dressing ability.

To Willie Rosenfeldt—John Cotton's collection of rings to start a pawn shop..

To Sugg Hampton—Murray Fater's chewing gum; Pauline Nelly's powder-puff; Carl Rhinehart's permanent wave.

To Frances Harris—Ye olde Senior Class bob comb.

To Lewin Porter—Reynolds Florence's white flannels.

To Jack Dougherty—Isadore Black's kiddiekar, so that he will be able to get to all dances on time.

To Will Hampton—A small seven hat.

To Isabelle Hubbard—Bernie Goldstein's "School Girl Complexion."

To Helen Bard—Chanie Whitley's corn cob pipe.

To Ray Wilson—Andrew Brandl's freckles.

To Pack Burgin—Hilliard Carr's wooden leg.

To Dorothy Davis—Evelyn Robert's popularity with B. M. S.

To Charles Nichols—Frank Chedester's and Fred Durret's book of cartoons on Mutt and Jeff.

To Evelyn Lafferty—Annie Crowell's height.

To Barnett Hollingsworth—Hugh Maye's laugh.

To Wendell Moore—Howard White's fire crackers—to be used on winning our next Championship.

We hereby designate as sole executor of this, our last will and testament, any person who needs the job bad enough.

In witness whereof, we hereby affix our seals and subscribe our names, this, the ninth day of June, in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and twenty-three.

Editorial

THE years have rolled slowly by; classes come and classes go, and the Class of 1923 is no exception. After four years of work and effort we have reached that long desired goal —Graduation. We have worked and we have played and now we are ready to embark upon the Sea of Life, to face the trials and labors that await us, for such is the will of Fate or, better still, of Providence. In that great mysterious Sea we shall doubtless meet with many obstacles which shall impede our progress; but we shall be unafraid, for we are prepared to face them. The training that we have received, not only intellectual but moral, during these years should guide us safely over the vast deep to the harbor of Success. It is not so much for the knowledge that we acquired from books for which we are thankful, as for the little lessons of life that we have learned during our sojourn in high school. Our first real successes and our failures begin in school. We owe much of our future success to the Asheville High School, for it is there that we learn something of the meaning of manhood and womanhood. We will always look back upon our Alma Mater with a deep feeling of gratitude.

We are ready to leave, but we leave with a certain feeling of sadness in our hearts, because the joys of school life are over. Now as we look back over those four years that have so swiftly flown, we realize that our little trials and struggles were a pleasure. Ah, how gladly we would live through it all again, but Life calls us and we must go!

We bid goodby to the Asheville High School and as our parting word we ask the younger students ever to be loyal to our school. May they always support the various activities of the school and uphold and defend its principles! May they always love and cherish it, for it will be the foundation of all their successes and triumphs!

We wish to thank Mr. Hutchins and the entire faculty for the sincere interest they have taken in our class. In conclusion, we hope that our four brief years of companionship have been a source of mutual inspiration and benefit, and that the influence of this association will long be felt in our lives.

This year has been another successful one for THE HILLBILLY. The members of both the Brown and Blue Staffs have proved themselves efficient workers. The two staffs, spurred on by a mutual spirit of rivalry, have worked zealously in selecting and preparing the literary matter for the magazines. The financial side of THE HILLBILLY has also been well managed. Through the kindness of the business houses of Asheville and our friends we have obtained sufficient funds to publish our magazine. We owe our success to the coöperation and perseverance which existed among the members of the two staffs. With the help of Miss Marshall, the faculty adviser for the Brown Staff, and Mr. Connor, the adviser for the Blue Staff, we have successfully edited six numbers of THE HILLBILLY. We wish to thank our advisers for their counsel and help.

We feel that we cannot leave our work without giving a few words of thanks to Miss Stratton, who has for several years devoted a great deal of her time and energy to THE HILLBILLY. She has unselfishly worked with the members of each staff, giving them every possible aid and suggestion. Without her help and careful management we could never have put out a school magazine of such quality. We gratefully appreciate her interest, advice, and friendship, and sincerely thank her for her tireless efforts and persistence.

The greater part of our time and attention is now devoted to the ANNUAL. As no allowance is made for it, the financial part is left entirely to Miss Stratton and our advertising solicitors. It has been the policy of Miss Stratton to keep down to the lowest possible point the expenses connected with the publication of the ANNUAL in order that the financial burden may not fall too heavily upon the students as so often happens in other schools. It requires very efficient management to do this. Each member of the Senior class receives a copy of the ANNUAL gratuitously. The rest of the magazines are sold to the teachers and students for fifty cents each. Our school is the only school in the state, or perhaps in the whole country, which does this.

Now our work is finished; we leave our places to the members of next year's staffs. We wish them every success and hope that they will carry on the work that their predecessors so eagerly began. We have tried to make our magazines interesting and pleasing, and we trust that our readers have enjoyed them. Now we leave with our readers the ANNUAL, which is our last task. May it always be a faithful memento of the class of nineteen twenty-three!

This year we had the good fortune to have several diligent advertising solicitors who devoted their time and energy to the obtainment of advertisements and donations for the Annual. These students have worked faithfully and deserve our sincerest thanks. Among the solicitors are two who are justly entitled to especial mention—Mattie Clayton and Flossie Monteith. These two secured the largest number of advertisements for the Annual, and without their help we could never have made it a success. We heartily thank each of our solicitors for their effort and for the interest they have taken in the magazine.

As the Annual has very little funds of its own, we are dependent each year upon the generosity of the business people of Asheville. The publication of our magazine would be impossible without their aid. We wish to thank them for their kindness and help. We also extend our thanks to all who have in any way assisted THE HILLBILLY during the year. We wish especially to thank Mr. Brown of the Brown Book Company for his donation toward the Annual fund.

HILLBILLY AND ANNUAL STAFF

The Asheville High School Magazine has been, for the last three years, divided into a Blue Staff and a Brown Staff

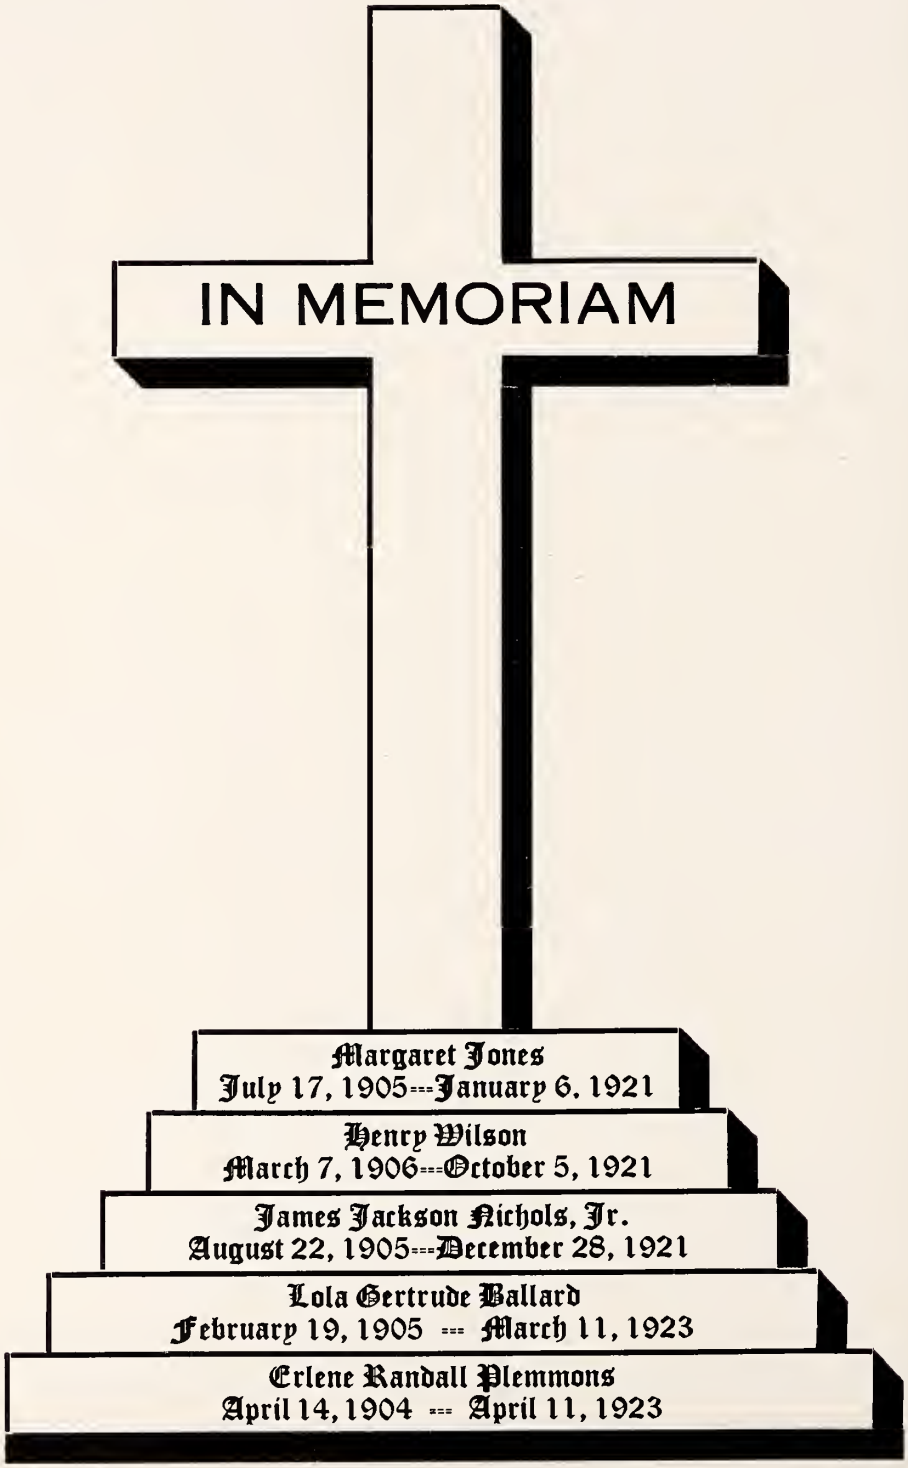

These two Staffs get out alternate issues of the Magazine.

Three judges decide which Staff has produced the best numbers.

The Blue won this year.

The winning Staff has its color on the cover of this Annual.

In Memoriam

Erlene Plemmons

When a friend is gone to that other land,
 Where the ramparts and palaces loom
In the golden garden of paradise,
 Then the flower of mem'ry doth bloom.

When a soul and its song take wing from the earth
 To sing with the angels on high,
Then we think of that life and its glory and worth,
 And that soul that can never die.

When the love of a heart and the smile of a face
 Are gone where none might see,
Then the mem'ry of each and the good they brought
 Live on perpetually.

There's the grief and the pain that a comrade has gone;
 Yet there's joy in hope and love
That softens the years, and sweetens the song
 From the harp of that angel above.

By Maurine Bledsoe

On April 9, 1923, Miss Erlene Plemmons departed this life at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Plemmons, on Third Avenue, West Asheville.

Her illness covered a period of a little less than two weeks, and during this period she displayed the same faith and hope that characterized her life in normal health. Her illness, terminating in death so soon, came as a great shock to her host of friends, and especially to her schoolmates in the Senior Class of the Asheville High School.

Miss Plemmons was one of the teachers in the Primary Department of Calvary Baptist Church at the time of her death and was held in high esteem by her associates in this department. She was also a leader in the several Young People's Departments; having recently passed from the Intermediate to the Senior B. Y. P. U., where she served faithfully and efficiently till her last illness.

She was a good student, a zealous Christian, and was admired by all with whom she came in contact. She was a favorite in the home and a true companion to her Mother.

The popularity of Miss Plemmons was attested by the large crowd that attended her funeral. The service was held in the Calvary Baptist Church house, where she had served so faithfully. Many of the number who came could not get inside the building, and a large number on the inside could find only standing room. The writer has never been more impressed with the love and respect shown for the dead than was shown by our esteemed principal and other members of the faculty, together with the Senior Class of the Asheville High School attending the funeral in a body.

We wish to extend to the grief-stricken family our heart-felt sympathy and to assure them that Erlene occupies a prominent place in the esteem and confidence of all who knew her.

J. B. Grice.
Pastor, Calvary Baptist Church.

Literary Societies

Athenean

Soon after the beginning of the fall term the Athenean Literary Society held its initial meeting. The usual enthusiasm and spirit of the Atheneans was shown by the number attending the first meeting. Officers were elected and plans were formulated for the ensuing year. During this term many interesting programs were carried out and much was accomplished in debating and parliamentary training.

In order to give our members better training and experience we elect officers twice each semester. This enables each member not only to know how an executive's work should be looked after but gives him actual experience in leadership. We have neither time nor space to give a list of all our officers but let it suffice to say that all performed their duties ably and creditably.

As usual our debaters have taken a part in the Triangular Debate. The negative team this year was composed of Atheneans, while both alternates were members of our society. Guided by our faculty adviser and ever ready friend, Mr. C. B. Hyatt, our society has accomplished much and we are proud of its record. For the past four years the Atheneans and Cleonians have won the Commencement Debate, and though we are expecting a hard fight, we hope to win again this year. The prospects for the coming year are bright indeed, and we wish the future Atheneans success in their work. May the Athenean Society always uphold the ideals and principles of love and loyalty for their school, of fair play, of good sportsmanship and companionship for which they now stand!

Cleonian

The Cleonian Literary Society is proud of the year's work. We first started the ball to rolling by having a membership contest of the Reds and Blacks. The result of this contest was to the credit of the society since sixty new members were added. With Miss Maurine Bledsoe as president, the society has shown what it can accomplish.

The Cleonians have had several exciting happenings this term, the first of which was the marriage of Miss Love, our faculty adviser. Although we hated to see her leave us, we are certain that she has found much more happiness in the course she took. The society sent her a lovely electric grill as a token of its gratitude for her kindness and help.

Our society also feels greatly indebted to Miss Edith Clark for the untiring help she has given us since Miss Love's retirement.

About Christmas time we entertained our sister society with a program, and we sincerely thank the Webers for the fine sister spirit that they have shown this year.

At the beginning of the Spring term Miss Virginia Baird was elected president. The society has entertained more this year than ever before. The first party was at Mr. Edward Thompson's house and was enjoyed by everyone. Next the Atheneans and Coopers entertained with a dance for the Webers and Cleonians at Battery Park Hotel. This was one of the best parties of the season, while the dance given at Miss Virginia Baird's house on St. Patrick's Day was one of joy and originality.

There are a number of excellent students going out for the Hyatt Medal in the Spring. This medal is offered every year for the best recitation by a member of the Cleonian Society.

We thank all our members for the support they have given us this term, and we hope that the younger members of our society will carry on the work next year as earnestly as we have begun this year.

Ruby Evans.

Cooper

As the end of the school year draws near, we look back upon the events of what we consider one of the most successful years in our history. We were handicapped in the beginning by being unable to start our work immediately at the start of school. At our first meeting we held the election of officers. Our officers for the fall term were Granberry Ward, President; William Stradley, Vice-President; Murray Fater, Secretary; Dudley Clark, Treasurer; and Reynolds Florance, Reporter.

At the beginning of school we were very sorry to learn that we would not have our last year's faculty adviser, Mr. Hamilton; but we are sure that we had a most successful successor in the person of Mr. Goodwin. Mr. Goodwin was at all times ready to help and advise whenever he was able. We appreciate his untiring efforts to make the society what it is, and we sincerely hope that Mr. Goodwin will be with us next year.

We think that we have been very successful in our work of the year. At the very first we started off with some very snappy programs, in which the members always enjoyed participating.

At the beginning of the spring term we again elected our officers. These were William Stradley, President; Arthur Taylor, Vice-President; Carl Rhinehart, Secretary; Reynolds Florance, Treasurer; and Ezra Wellens, Reporter. These officers have filled their offices well and it is only hoped that the Coopers will have as successful a year as the past one has been.

We will put forth our best debater in the coming Commencement Debate and feel confident of winning over our rivals. Since Mr. Goodwin is such an excellent coach, we feel that it will be an easy matter for us.

Reynolds Florance.

Weber

Exceeding our most sanguine expectations has been the progress made by the Weber Literary Society this year. A most unusual thing was inaugurated by us when to our hundred members was added the sum of sixty-five Junior Webers. The latter are under the direct supervision of the Senior Webers, and have manifested great interest in their own Literary Society. They are working to become better Senior Webers when they reach the ninth grade. The Senior Society has carried out a most enlightening, instructive, and interesting literary program throughout the year. Modern authors, their works and lives, have been studied extensively.

Many enjoyable events have taken place, such as the initiation last fall; the joint meetings of the Cleonians and Webers which helped foster a better spirit between the two societies; and the dance which the boys' societies gave the girls' societies. Many interesting occasions are scheduled for the near future, among them being the initiation of the Junior Webers, the Weber-Cooper dance, the Cleonian-Weber Picnic, and the Commencement Debate for which Mr. Hutchins has so kindly offered a medal.

We are justly proud of the fact that two of our members, Eloise Hanaman and Helène Johnson, are on the Triangular Debate. Next year, it is to be hoped, the society will encourage debating even more than has been its custom. We are looking forward to a bigger, better, brighter year in every respect.

HI-Y CLUB

Hi-Y Club

On Thursday, March 22, the reorganized Hi-Y Club had its first meeting at the Y. M. C. A. with about forty-five members present. The reorganization of the club was the result of the earnest work of a group of boys who felt that they wanted in their High School an organization which would strive to realize what is best in High School life.

The Hi-Y stands for Christian ideals in the lives of the boys of the High School and a constructive program toward this end. For this purpose a meeting is held every Thursday at 6:30, when supper is served and plans are made for work in the High S 'iool.

Mr. Waite has been meeting with the boys and helping them plan their programs, while the club has the endorsement and encouragement of many of the High School teachers. Principal A. J. Hutchins was the chief speaker at the first meeting. He made a powerful appeal to the boys to live up to the ideals of their religion. Mr. Hyatt also is very much interested in the organization and was there to make a short talk to the boys and lend his influence.

The Hi-Y wants every boy who feels in accord with its purpose to join it. Its aim is to make Christ's ideals the ideals of the boys of the school and of the city. Clean speech, clean habits, clean thoughts and sportsmanship—are they worth while? If they are, then we want you, fellow school mates, in our club.

Student Club

The Student Club, with Miss Nell Cauble as President, has had a very successful year. The programs have been entertaining as well as instructive. Miss Bowen and Miss Fraser, the advisers of the club, have given much of their time and efforts to make the club successful. The chairmen of the committees have also been enthusiastic.

The Social Committee under Margaret Glenn has done commendable work. They cared for a family at Christmas time, and sang for the Oteen boys, and to the sick nurses at Oteen. Again this year the Student Club entertained the faculty with a George Washington Tea, which proved a great success.

The club has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Margaret Glenn, President; Martha Hall, Vice-President; Edith Harris, Secretary; Juanita Hayes, Treasurer; Virginia Carrier, Reporter. With these new officers we are sure that the club will be even more successful.

The Dramatic Department

The slogan of the Dramatic Department seems to be in accordance with the Coué belief, for, indeed, every year in every way this department is getting better and better. This year has been an unusually successful one, and we feel that this success should be credited to Miss Edna May Phillips, under whose supervision both the dramatic and public speaking classes have advanced very rapidly.

The work in these departments is very beneficial as well as interesting. This year the first semester was given entirely to the reading of famous essays, eulogies, prose and poetry selections. Also, Miss Phillips has introduced a new phase of work, that of learning the art of short-story telling. We say art, for, indeed, the person who is able to hold an audience spell-bound, while he, off-hand, narrates an exciting short-story, has unquestionably mastered an art. A great part of our time has been spent in debating. From time to time we have had very deep and heated discussions on some of the biggest questions which confront America today. We ask you to note that three of our Triangular Debaters are now members of the Dramatic Department and the fourth has been a member in the past. This proves that the student who takes Public Speaking stands higher in literary societies, in any sort of public speaking, and, in fact, in every day life, than the student who does not take it, for here he learns to speak for himself.

Directly after Christmas we began work on eleven one-act plays. Every member of the Department was given a part. Try-outs were held and Mr. Howell, Mrs. Crawford, and Miss Jones served as judges to choose the four plays with the highest average. The winning plays were "The Marble Arch," "Peter," "No Men Wanted," and "The Dumb Waiter." These four plays were presented in the High School Auditorium on the night of March 6 and, in spite of a hard rain, a large audience enjoyed the performance.

The new over-head lights, secured through the much appreciated efforts of Mr. Hutchins, with the scenery and furniture kindly loaned us by the Pack Theatre and Kincaid-Swain Furniture Company, gave a real theatrical appearance to the production. "The Marble Arch" and "The Dumb Waiter" were given later at Oteen and although we were again applauded by the incessant beating of rain drops on the window panes, the boys filled the hall and seemed to enjoy the plays to the fullest extent.

In addition to our newly installed light equipment the Department has received a much needed set of screens, which were made by Mr. Moffit, Mr. Howell, and several of our boys for the Music Room. These screens are doubly appreciated, for they add greatly to the attractiveness of the stage and afford a suitable place for recitations, recitals and stage rehearsals.

Miss Phillips is especially pleased with her first year students. She has several classes, and the noticeable results of one year's work in the reading classes are favorably acknowledged by the other teachers. This training in committing to memory and reading to the best advantage helps the students in every subject and certainly furnishes a firm foundation for our future debaters, declaimers, and leaders of school activities.

Foot Ball

The football team of 1922 will always be remembered and will go down in the High School's history as the best team that ever represented the school. This year fully fifty men reported at the beginning of the season, and three teams were selected from this squad. At times it was very difficult to determine the first and second teams, but finally the squad was narrowed down to seventeen first-string men. This season was the most successful of any since the High School has ever participated in athletics. This team is the first to bring home the State Championship, and we are very proud of them. Our boys started out at the beginning of the season to win, and they did! They never lost a single game and only tied two. One was a tie with Knoxville, Tennessee, the Champions of Tennessee, and the other with Bingham, a local prep school. It was said by all football fans who saw our boys play that our team was the best high school team they ever saw. This team was under the captaincy of Philip Atkinson, a star player of two years. Those who were greatly responsible for this year's success were Head Coach, B. S. Frei, and Assistant Coaches, Naiman, Hunt and Huddleston.

The business men and women of this city got together and with the aid of local clubs made it possible for each of the first seventeen men to be presented with a gold football. These were presented to the boys by our Mayor, Mr. Roberts. The student body backed the team one hundred per cent!

SCRUBS

The scrubs aided materially in rounding the team into shape. Some of them are looming up as possible Varsity men next year. They included F. Finley, E. Chakales, I. Black, C. Baughm, R. Worley, W. Moore, C. Pritchett, E. Atkinson and H. Johnson.

BASKET BALL STATE CHAMPIONS

Basket Ball

Asheville High added another victory to her list this season by taking another State Championship—that of Basket Ball. It seems that the High School has just begun to wake up and see some of her possibilities in regard to some of the State's titles. The basket ball team this season was the best that ever represented the High School. This team, along with the football team, will be remembered in the High School's volumes of history to be used by the future generations. We not only won by having the larger end of the scores but we won another victory and that was by clean sportsmanship. The boys who represented our school played the game fair and square and won for us a third victory, of which we are very proud to say that it belongs to US. The student body played the game and backed our boys to the limit.

Coaches Frei and Moffit are greatly responsible for this second State Championship. They gave their time and strained every effort to make a winning team, and it was well worth their time. In the opinion of many coaches our quintet was one of the strongest high school teams in the South. For marvelously speedy and accurate pass work and a high individual average of stellar performance we are justified in claiming that we have had few close rivals. And for this reason we sent our team to Chicago to participate in the National Basket Ball Tournament. They played Idaho and lost by a large score. This eliminated Asheville and they returned home. Boys, we're for you and we are sorry you lost.

Andrew Brandl, halfback on the football team, is captain of the State Champions. He is a good player. Others who are playing are James Nixon, Ralph James, Charlie Chakales, Guy Green, Andrew Tucker, Ray Nichols, and Weldon Weir. The scrubs who helped make our team Champions are Fred Corn, William Stradley, Robert Worley, and Harold Weir.

John Branch played with our team but was unable to take part in the Championship Series because of a newly formed rule which declared him ineligible. He was one of the best players we had, and we are very sorry he could not play.

Girls' Basket Ball

The Maroon and Black Quintet established a good record for the school during the season. With eleven games won, one tied, only three lost, and a total of 416 points scored against opposing teams, offsetting their total of 291 points, the girls' team established a better record than they have ever had before. Under the consistent coaching of Miss Pauline Smathers, assisted by Mr. Moffitt, the girls developed into a scoring machine whose degree of perfection is seldom obtained by girls' teams in this section.

Miss Smathers has seen fit to say a few things about our center and guards. Although they did not put the goal in the basket, they helped make the score in many other ways. Annie Mae Alexander, one of the star forwards of the team, led in scoring for the season. She is accredited with a total of 152 points for the season. Jessie Lyda came second with a record of 144 points. Irene Cook scored 66 points and Augusta Barnett 34. There were many others in the back field who also played hard. Grace Cheadle is a player of unusual ability. Margaret Jarrett, an excellent floor worker, has no equal in speed. Olivette Luther is a steady and reliable player. Geneva Stone is an invisible whirlwind, who is always in the right place when she is needed. Julia Hampton and Catherine Israel are a pair destined to inspire terror among the forwards of our opponents next year. Helen Brown is a star who has shone brighter each of her successive years with the team.

Track Team

The track team was reorganized this spring with prospects of a very successful season. About thirty candidates reported when track practice was announced. Of these thirty most of the men showed prospects of good future track men. The squad held practice every day on the local Y. M. C. A. athletic field under the direction of Alex Waite, who gained his experience at the University of South Carolina. He is as good on the track as he is in the classroom where he teaches Spanish. He is also head of the Hi-Y Club and an earnest worker among High School activities. We only hope to be fortunate enough to get him back next year.

The schedule included meets with the local prep schools and a good showing was made. We also entered the Western North Carolina State Championship at Greensboro, North Carolina, but this was too late to get the results in the Annual.

Of the candidates that came out those who proved themselves most competent were "Stokes" Dixon, Cliff and Thompson for the sprints; Brock and Hurt in the middle distance runs; Bruggeman, F. Finley, Scott, White and Kartus in the long distance runs; Stradley (Manager), Corn, P. Atkinson, Childs and Chakales in the weight events; Dixon, Cliff, Childs, Brock and Green in the jumps; and Luckett, Cliff and Dixon in the hurdles.

William Stradley.

Inter-Class Teams

Boys

This year the Athletic Association offered a cup to the winner of the Boys' Inter-Class League. This league is composed of a team from each senior grade. Each team played two games. The first game between the Juniors and the Sophomores ended in a twenty-four to twenty-one victory for the Sophomores. The second game gave a twenty-three to twenty victory to the Seniors over the Juniors. The final game between the Sophomores and the Seniors, ending in a twenty-five to twenty-two victory for the Sophomores, gave to them the beautiful loving-cup which they had worked so hard to win.

The line-up of the Champions is as follows:

Paul Jones (captain).....Right Forward
Reed Jones.....Left Forward
William Stradley Center
Lester Carter.....Right Guard
James Griswald.....Left Guard

Substitutes: W. Weir, H. Wells, L. Hodges.

As Our Poets See Us

By Edith Forster, Kathleen Morison, Mary Wilder

JACK FELMET

A gentleman in every respect,
For most anything he has a knack,
But football is his favorite hobby.
He's a fine boy; we're proud of our Jack.

ROBERT FINLEY

Bob's fine on the football team;
He's good in the class room too.
He's quite a business man,
And can laugh as well as woo!

WILLIAM FITZGERALD

A good-looking, manly chap
Is he; girls, beware Fitzgerald,
Any old thing suits him,
So let us his charms herald.

NETTIE HOWARD

She has an interesting way about her,
She never is contrary,
But the greatest mystery of Nettie
Is her large vocabulary.

EDWIN AND ROEBY WILSON

Brothers, Edwin and Roeby,
Their praises will be sung thruout the days,
Both honest, upright boys
They will bring honor to our class always.

KATHLEEN MORISON

You've heard the song so often sung
Of Kathleen Mavoureen,
But we're sure she was no more attractive
Than our own Kathleen.

HILDA YEAGER

She's smarter than the smartest,
And better than the best,
And if you don't believe it—
Put Hilda to the test.

MARIE EDWARDS

So gentle and so beautiful
She has endeared herself to every name.
Marie's ambitions and attainments
Will never fail to bring her fame.

MARGARET JARRETT

Margaret Jarrett is sunny-haired and sincere,
To seek, to find, to command, but not to yield,
Her friends all think her such a dear,
For she works and plays with such zeal.

OLIVETTE LUTHER

Our basket ball girls, too, deserve praise,
Among them, Olivette,
They haven't won a Championship,
But I'm sure they hope to yet.

NELLIE PATTERSON, HURST ALLEN

Nellie is a quiet girl,
And surely most deserving,
And also Hurst Allen deserves the best
If him you have been observing.

ANNIE CANTWELL

Midget is our class flapper
She surely fills her place.
The loudest colors she does wear,
But she has a smiling face.

MARY WILDER

There's Mary and her little lamb,
And Mary quite contrary,
But of all girls by this name
We prefer our own Mary.

MARGARET JOHNSON

Our other Margaret is a mystery;
She's quiet, modest, and reserved.
All the compliments we give her
Are certainly well deserved.

EDITH FORSTER

A dainty little miss Edith is,
Blue eyes and curly hair.
She spends her time composing verse—
None can with her compare.

MARVIN McCULLOH

In our class is Marvin McCulloh,
He's neither fast nor slow,
He does his work so well
There isn't much he doesn't know.

LUCILLE McLEAN

There's a smile among the many,
That any one may gain,
And this smile comes from no one
But our own Lucille McLean.

LILLIAN MILLER

Lillian is a quiet girl;
With words she does not play.
But uses them with rarest art
Her thoughts in poetry to portray.

BONNIE SHOFFNER

A jolly laugh and cheerful smile
Bonnie carries along where'er she goes.
She knows scores of people, young and old—
They're all her friends, none are her foes.

ZEB GOLDSMITH

He's very fond of joking;
He is fond of hunting books,
But Zeb's greatest occupation
Is to dodge the ladies' looks.

WILLIAM LASATER

Of all the lazy boys we've seen
There's none like William Lasater.
Will some one please tell us why
Our Bill does not move faster?

DOUGLAS TENNANT

Though Douglas is quite heavy,
His line most simple is,
And all the traits of manliness
We know are most certainly his.

HAL BROWN

They do not hang around him—
Nor fan him with a fan,
But everybody knows it,
Hal's our lady's man.

MARY BAKER

Mary's fond of jokes and frolic,
But she studies sometimes too.
We are sure her future pathway
With friends and flowers she will strew.

EDNA BOONE

We have a friend in Edna Boone;
She's kind as she is clever.
She conquers each ensuing task
With skill and rare endeavor.

BREVARD HOOVER

Brevard has another's distinguished name—
One known throughout the land.
We hope that his will be as famed,
With deeds wrought by as great a hand.

WILLIAM BRAMAN

Sometimes we call him William,
But he's nearly always "Bill."
With his wit and savored humor
He bends you to his will.

A YOUNG MAN ONCE ASKED ANDREW CARNEGIE——

"How would you advise me to go about getting ahead in life, Mr. Carnegie?"

"Well, I'd take a thousand dollars——"

"But I haven't a thousand dollars!"

"Save it!" exclaimed Mr. Carnegie. "Save it!"

Suppose you decide you will save for one year—regularly, just adding to your Savings Account week after week, at 4 per cent compounded interest. What would you have at the end of a year? A thousand dollars? More! You would have the key to financial independence, to a life of security, to a comfortable future. For you would have the "habit of saving."

Ask Her—
She Knows—

Whitman's Candy is HER choice. There's a reason. Whitman's has just the right flavor—it pleases. It is pure. It is always fresh. It is sent out in attractive boxes—real beauties. The assortment always delights the recipient. Say it with Whitman's.
